CONTINUING TO SIGN UP FOR BATTERY

V. F. W. ROOMS LOOK LIKE REGULAR RECRUITING STATION.

RENT D. ANGELL GARAGE

Captain Maynor Says It Is Best the State Has—Need Place for Stock.

Twenty-four men signed up last night for the National Guard Artillery Battery that is being organized here and they continued to sign up today. At 11 o'clock this morning the number had reached thirty. The indications are that fifty, the minimum number, will be reached in a short time, perhaps today.

A bunch of men who had signed up and who were thinking of doing so were lounging about the Veterans of Foreign War's headquarters this morning, where the recruiting is being done. One man, who has served a number of years in the army, remarked that it reminded him of one of the times when he enlisted in Kansas City.

One of the recruits remarked that he had an itching between the knees and that he wanted to scratch them on a horse.

The new garage building that has just been completed on North Main street was rented today from the owner, Dave Angell, to be used as the armory for the battery. The contract is being gone over and is to be signed this afternoon.

Captain Maynor remarked this morning when looking at the building that it was just exactly what was needed. He said that no battery in the state had a building as well suited to the purpose as the Angell garage building here is. It is 66x72 feet and two stories high. On the first floor is one large room off of which open a bath room, a lavatory and a rest room. The second floor is divided into two large rooms. The building is modern throughout. It has electric lights and an electric elevator.

The state is to take charge of the building September 1 and the contract runs for a term of years. The consideration is $160 a month.

Thousand of dollars worth of equipment will be sent here for the battery and it will be necessary to have a good building to keep it in. It will also be necessary to have a place large enough to accommodate the men in some drills when the weather prevents going outside to drill.

It is said that the uniforms and some of the equipment for the battery should arrive here within about ten days after the organization is perfected and that it should continue to come in for some time. It is said that the horses for the battery should arrive here within two months after the organizing is finished.

It will be necessary to have a good stable and a corral for the horses. This must be rented from some one if such a place is available.

Few suggestions have been made as to a suitable place for a stable or as a range for target practice with light arms, as the need for such places is more remote than that for an armory.

The men who signed up will be examined by a local physician designated for the purpose. The men will also be sworn in.

Following is a specimen of the blank that the men who are signing up fill out:

I, John Doe, do acknowledge to have voluntarily enlisted in the National Guard of the United States and of the State of Missouri for a period of three years. That I will bear true faith and allegiance to the United States; that I will obey all orders from the President of the United States and the Governor of the State of Missouri and all officers and noncommissioned officers placed over me according to the laws of the United States and of the State of Missouri.

I certify that I am 22 years old; that I was born at Maryville, Mo., that the name of nearest relative is Sam Doe whose address is Maryville, Mo., that my occupation is clerk.

Witness Rolf Raynor.

Can a dog read?

Circumstantial evidence leads Clyde Busby of Quitman, breeder of Boston terriers to believe that he can. Mr. Busby had the above advertisement inserted in the Democrat-Forum Monday and writes the following regarding it:

"Allow me to say that I am very much pleased with the results obtained from the advertisement. Within seven hours after your paper came off the press my dog returned of his own accord. Evidently he had read the advertisement and returned for the reward."

AUGUST HARD TIME TO READ METERS

HOUSEHOLDERS ON VACATIONS AND READER CAN'T GET IN.

ALWAYS RATHER BIG JOB

For Ten Days at Close of Each Month Two People Are Reading and Making Out Bills.

The task of reading the meters for the month of August is now going on. August is the hardest month of the year for getting the readings, according to the city officials. The difficulty comes up over the fact that so many consumers are out of town and have their houses locked. It is not possible for the reader to get into the house. Where Gleeson Womack, the reader, is not able to get in on his first trip around he makes a second trip. If he is not able to get in this time the meter is not read for that month and is read the next time for the two months.

The work of taking the readings and figuring up the bill is a larger one, perhaps, than the average person thinks. On the twentieth of each month the reader starts to make his rounds. He reports to Miss Ola Smith, city clerk, at noon on the readings that he has made in the morning. During the afternoon, while the reader is visiting other places, the city clerk figures up the amounts and makes out the bills. In the evening Womack reports again and the following morning these tickets are figured up and the bills made out. This process is carried on for about 10 days, when it is completed. A half day after the reader makes his last report the bills are all ready, and this is generally on the last day of the month. Then comes the parade of consumers to pay their bills.

The number of meters read each month is about 900. It usually happens that about thirty are not read, owing to the fact that the reader cannot get in the house. There are more services in town than this but some of them are always discontinued or suspended for some reason.

On his first round the reader goes on foot and on the second round, when the houses are much scattered, he goes in a car.

The work of reading the meters is made much easier and simpler when the reader gets to know his territory. It is no small job to learn just where the meter is to be found in 900 or 1,000 different houses. Mr. Womack has been on the job for almost two years, however, and the city officials say that he knows the whereabouts of the meters so well that he has little difficulty in going straight to them in each of the houses in town.

LOOKING FOR INSTRUMENTS LENT 25 YEARS AGO

Ed Schweikhardt of Guilford was in Maryville yesterday afternoon for some musical instruments which he said that he learned twenty-five years ago. Sam Job, it is thought will have charge of the band at Guilford.

3,000 SAW FILMS AT FAIR MONDAY

BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY ANNOUNCING THEM ON GROUNDS.

ARTICLE INSEDALIAPAPER

Tells of the Community Idea That Is Being Carried on in Nodaway County.

Three thousand people at the State Fair at Sedalia saw "Agriculture in Nodaway County" Monday. "If we could have stood the heat to put on a continuous show people would have come in every minute of the day," writes George A. Pickens.

Mr. Pickens' letter was written Monday and it is as follows:

It is nice and cool tonight and we had an interesting crowd. Have shown to about 2,000 people since last night.

The Bell Telephone Company has put in a "Lead Speaker" and is announcing the "Nodaway County Show or Exhibit" so you can hear it all over grounds. A number of people came to tent to ask how we arranged it.

Geo. W. Catts, of the Kansas City, Chamber of Commerce and J. B. Hall County Agent of Linn County called on us and paid the Nodaway Exhibit a fine compliment.

Among the Nodaway County folk who have been at the tent since I wrote last night are Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Neal; Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Riley and daughters, Pearl and Ruby; J. H. Harvey; Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Hartman, Willard and William Hartman; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stafford; William Geist; Gordon Roach; Wililam McDougal and Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, who live near Hopkins.

The following article regarding the films is from the Sedalia Democrat:

The story of Nodaway County's agricultural film, which is now being exhibited at the fair grounds is an interesting one in as much as it carries with it the story of the awakening of a community to its possibilities, both as a big factor in the industrial and commercial world and its opportunity to create new interest in all of the upbuilding activities going on within its borders.

From a small beginning, featuring only a small number of farm and stock pictures it has grown to four and a half reels of pictures on 6,500 feet of film, valued at $5,000. The picture story includes every phase of rural activities, farm horses, fine blooded stock, fields of waving wheat, alfalfa harvesting, schools, and boys and girls pig club scenes, all of these interspersed with special views, a bit of woodland or river with now and then a comic to break the monotony.

The farm films, which were a year and a half in the making have been shown 90 times to approximately 20,000 people. Most of these dates were community meetings and rural school affairs where the films are greatly in demand, always being dated several weeks ahead during the school year.

The county films were gotten up as a home enterprise, to show home folks what is going on in their own county and to awaken them to a better realization of the natural resources, agricultural, industrial and educational, which is Missouri's greatest asset.

The farmers and land owners of the county financed the sending of the films to Sedalia, where they are being shown each day and night, at 11 a. m., 2 p. m., 4 p. m. and 8 p. m. under the direction of F. R. Marcell, local cinema producer, R. A. Kinnaird, county agent and G. A. Pickens, secretary of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce.

200 HEAD CATTLE WERE REACTORS

THEY HAVE BEEN PUT ON MARKETS

NOT MUCH CUT PRICE

Salvage Amounts to About Same That Would Be Received if Cattle Were Not Condemned.

In the thousands of head of cattle that Dr. T. J. Eagle has given the tuberculin test in Nodaway County he has found about 200 reactors and it has been necessary for the owners of these cattle to dispose of them. In most cases they have been shipped to market. These condemned cattle, while dangerous to use as milk stock, can be sold to the packers and used, unless the disease has reached an advanced stage.

The stock when condemned are appraised and the animal sold. The county, state and national funds for the purpose of paying for condemned stock amounts to $100 a head as a maxmium and runs less than this if the appraised value is lower.

The Omaha World-Herald carried Monday the following story regarding the marketing of condemned cattle:

In the campaign for the eradication of tuberculosis in cattle being carried on by the United States department of agriculture the states and counties, one of the most important economic considerations is the salvage, at a fair price, of the animals that react to the test. Up to a year and a half ago a large percentage of the reactors that were passed by the inspectors as perfectly fit for food did not bring a fair price, because some buyers took an unfair advantage of the seller and profited unreasonably.

The department of agriculture through the bureau of animal industry and the packers and stock yards administration has been looking into this matter for a year or more, taking it up with packing concerns, commission men and organizations interested in the marketing of live stock. As a result much better prices are now being paid. Reports to the department show that the prices being paid for such cattle in various parts of the country are getting very close to the prices paid for the same class of cattle on the regular market. A special traveling inspector now spends all his time visiting live stock markets, noting prices that are being paid for reactors and insisting that buyers who are discriminating against them pay a fair price.

Carcasses of reactors that have been passed by the federal inspectors are as much and are as wholesome as any other carcasses. There is no warrant for price discrimination against them. Many of the leading packers at the big markets and a large number of the smaller concerns on many markets now see the justice of this view, with the result that reactors are now selling at more nearly fair prices.

The department has compiled figures on the prices received for reactors in a number of states for 1921 and 1922 and in several of them the increase in average price has been considerable, in a few instances reaching more than 100

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NODAWAY COUNTY

OH MAN!

(Duluth Herald)

A friend of The Herald, a man of many summers and much ripened wisdom, with whom observation and reflection have been lifelong habits, writes us thus:

"Was there ever before a more remarkable contrast between the goodness of Almighty God and the folly and frenzy of mankind than that afforded by the approaching superabundant crops ready for harvest, and the savagery of waste and destruction of the mines and along the rails in these United States? The world war was no more appalling."

God provides abundance. All that men need to do is to reach out for it, be happy in the joyous work of promoting and gathering that abundance, and learn how to get along with each other in the common enjoyment of plenty.

And yet men, their fingers at each other's throats, are laying waste this abundance, scattering their substance in childish quarrels, impoverishing all and profiting none!

Man has conquered wildernesses, forests, ocean wastes, the mystic forces of fire, steam and electricity. But all his conquests are nothing unless he learns to conquer himself, and this he has not done. He still wastes the bounty that God gives freely by quarrels and divisions as absurd as any that afflicted the childhood of the race.

He needs only to put service and love in place of greed and selfishness to be happy in the midst of abounding prosperity. His history is crowded with tragic proof that there is neither profit nor good of any kind in discord; yet he still nourishes savage passions, still refuses to see that there would be plenty for all if men would only learn to treat each other as decently as they want to be treated themselves.

SHOULD FILE REQUEST FOR BONUS IF REFUSED

Miss Turner Says They Can be Secured in This Way in Some Cases Where Turned Down.

A number of former service men from Missouri have been notified that they are not entitled to the state bonus because of different reasons Miss Betty Turner, executive secretary of the Nodaway County Chapter of the American Red Cross said this afternoon that should any of the men be notified that they are not entitled to the State Bonus, they should file a request, within sixty days, with the secretary of the soldier's bonus commission at Jefferson City for a review of their case.

When the request is received by the secretary of the soldiers' bonus commission, accompanied by all of the papers referring to that particular case, it will be turned over to a board, composed of the Governor, the Adjutant General and the Secretary of State to be reviewed. Miss Turner says that there are cases in which it might be thought that a soldier was not entitled to a bonus, but when they are reviewed by this board they might be found to be entitled to it.

Trowbridge Sees Great Future for American Royal

The cash prizes to be awarded November 18 to 25 at the American Royal livestock show in Kansas City will reach a total of $55,000—a much higher figure than ever before. Commenting on this fact at the Missouri College of Agriculture today, E. A. Trowbridge, chairman of the animul husbandry department, said:

"The American Royal livestock show is on a better basis than ever before. With a magnificent new building as its home, and with the loyal support of livestock men, farmers and business interests generally, it is prepared to reach maximum development. The show has added complete classifications for cattle, sheep and swine. All these evidences of growth indicate the powerful influence that the American Royal will exert toward the improvement of livestock in Missouri and throughout America."

per cent. In Kansas the average price paid for these cattle rose from $16.52 to $34.26; in Minnesota from $17.71 to $24.48; in Missouri from $15.60 to $31.93; in Wisconsin from $16.09 to $26.25, and in Vermont, where only one firm had been handling them previously, from $5.61 to $16.29. In eighteen states, including the live stock and dairy states of the middle west and a number of eastern states, the average price paid increased about $3 a head. The department expects that continued efforts on the part of the bureau and the packers and stock yards administration will result in still better prices for reactors.

Packers, commission men and live stock exchanges are getting behind the movement for better prices since they have been impressed with the fact that the encouragement of the work of tuberculosis eradication means more and better business in the future. The Institute of American Meat Packers passed a resolution calling upon the members to pay as much for reactors as for untested cattle of the same quality.

In connection with this discussion of prices, it is well to keep in mind, according to department officials, that the area method of eradicating the disease has an additional advantage in that more reactors are available from one place at one time, and consequently can be shipped at less expense and can be handled more economically at the yards and in the packing house.

PRISONER HAD ON ONLY EVIDENCE; BAIL DENIED

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 23—A Cincinnati police sergeant refused to accept bond the other day for Lunan Johnson, a negro charged with the theft of a pair of trousers' because the prisoner had on the garment in dispute.

"It can't be done," the Sergeant said, when a negro woman appeared to bail out Johnson. "He's got on the only evidence in the case, so I can't let him go out with them on; it's a cinch I ain't going to let him leave here with 'em off."

GERMAN GIRL LACES SO TIGHTLY IT KILLS HER

Berlin, Aug. 23.—On a trip to her parents a twenty-two-year old serving maid of a Goerlitz farmer laced herself so tightly that she collapsed at the station and died immediately before she stepped into the train.

THE RIGHT WHEAT VARIETIES

Their Use Would Add Millions to State's Wealth

There are four varieties of wheat so well adapted to Missouri conditions that they are 29 per cent more productive—on a five-year average, than the varieties generally grown in the state. If these varieties were used exclusively, each in the section of the state where best adapted, even if methods of culture were in no way improved, the State's annual yield of wheat would be increased by eleven million bushels! This much is proved conclusively by long continued experiments at the Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station. And all of these four high-yielding varieties are soft red winter wheat.

Except in certain limited areas in the northwestern part of the state, soft wheat both outyields and outsells hard wheat in Missouri. In a series of tests from 1905 to 1920 at seven experimental fields representing the northwest, northeast, central, west central, east central and southwest portions of the state, the Missouri Experiment Station made direct comparison of yields of hard red winter wheat and soft red winter wheat. The yields of soft wheat in this investigation, as reported in Bulletin 188, were considerably greater than those of hard wheat in every portion of the state except the north-western.

The varieties of soft red winter wheat that have given the best results in these tests are: For North Missouri, Poole and Deitz; for Central Missouri, Michigan Wonder and Fulcaster; for South Missouri, Fulcaster.

In buying seed wheat a variety of tested value should be obtained from some nearby source. Wheat that has given good results on neighboring farms for several years is a safe kind to use. New varieties for which extragrant claims are made unsually prove disappointing. All promising new varieties are tried out by the experiment station, and during the 16 years of experimental work reported in Bulletin 188 no one of the so-called new varieties appearin on the market has proved superior to the old established varieties recommended. In most cases these "new varieties" are merely old varieties nuder new names. In some case they are unadapted varities from distant sources.

Information concerning sources of adapted and approved seed wheat in every section of the state may be obtained from W. C. Etheridge, Secretary of the Missouri Corn Growers' Association in care of the Missouri College of Agriculture at Columbia.

U. S. TEACHERS TO GET FRENCH TIPS

Paris, Aug. 23.—Most French teachers in American schools know outrageously little about French life and customs and speak French with an accent that couldn't be understood in Paris, according to Professor Albert A. Meras, department of modern languages, Columbia University. Wherefore Prof. Meras is making arrangements with the Sorbonne so that a certain number of students from Teachers' College, Columbia, who are specializing in the teaching of French, may take a part of their course at the French university. Next Summer, Prof. Meras has announced, the first group of students will be sent over as a trial of the method. A Columbia professor will accompany the group, who will be candidates for a master's degree.

Economic Crisis Hits Vatican as Well as Rest of Europe; Budget Introduced.

By Gugielmo Emanuel,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Rome, Aug. 23.—The economic crisis which has all Europe worried has even penetrated into the quiet of the Vatican, according to information in well-informed circles.

The Vatican is faced with financial difficulties, it is learned and the Pope has ordered strenuous retrenchments.

With the inauguration of a new Pontificate it is customary for the bishops of various dioces to make offerings to the Vatican, but these offerings have been slow in reaching Rome because many of the bishops have preferred to bring the offerings in person.

The late Pope Benedict was both generous and lavish, and it is reliably stated that his expenditures made heavy inroads upon the Vatican Treasury, although many of those heavy expenditures were for philanthropic purposes.

Pope Pius has demonstrated that besides his great intellectual and religious position he is an administrator and it is stated that he is inaugurating a system which is virtually a budget system and that Vatican expenditures are being placed upon a basis which co-incides with the receipts.

Pope Pius has begun his retrenchment in the expenditures in his own household, and it is understood that he is now living under conditions of the strictest economy.

POMERENE SAYS G. O. P. REPUDIATES PLEDGES

Cites Republican Tariff Bill as Greatest "Pork Barrel" Legislation in History.

Columbus, O., Aug. 23. — Charging that the republican administration at Washington had repudiated its campaign pledges of 1920 and that a great part of the legislation by the present congress had been for the benefit of big business rather than the ordinary citizen, Senator Pomerene, delivering the keynote address at the democratic state convention here yesterday, predicted a democratic victory in November.

Criticism of the republican tariff bill, which he termed "the greatest piece of 'pork barrel' legislation in the history of congress," formed the major part of the address, which also touched upon what Senator Pomerene declared the complete failure of the administration to enact constructive legislation. Republican revenue legislation placed the burden of taxation upon persons and businesses of smaller income, and relieved wealthy persons and corporations, earning excessive profits, he declared.

In his condemnation of the tariff, Senator Pomerene charged that it would increase the cost of living, destroy the foreign commerce of the powers through the powers given the President; put more government in business rather than less, and that it was neither "just," "fair," nor "impartial." Manufacturers had combined together, he declared, to get excessively high rates in which the consumer in every case was the victim.

The bill, Mr. Pomerene said, would increase the cost of living in the United States by more than $4,000,000,000 annually. Various blocs in congress, he said, were responsible for the high rates, declaring that instead of "a government of the people, by the people and for the people, government is becoming a government of the blocs, by the blocs and for the blocs."

MARYVILLE BOYS BACK FROM MOTOR TRIP TO ST. LOUIS

Gordon Roach, William Geist and William McDougal Attended DeMolay Conclave.

William Geist, Gordon Roach and William McDougal returned yesterday afternoon from a motor trip which covered approximately 900 miles. They made it in their stripped down Ford. The important point of their trip was the DeMolay Conclave at St. Louis, which the boys attended last week. They also visited friends on the way and spent part of their time at Sedalia at the State Fair.

The boys say that they made the trip with comparatively no trouble at all. They had one blow out and one puncture and a slight repair was necessary near California. While this repair was being made the boys took breakfast with Marvin Crawford, city editor of the Democrat-Forum, who spent last week with his parents at California.

The car in which the trip was made was owned by William Geist and Gordon Roach. They expect to rebuild the machine according to plans worked out by themselves and B. E. Hale and equip it with a new Ford Speedster body. The body will be a model of the bodies which Roach, Geist and Hale will design and build on a commercial scale. They are connected with the Geist Tin Shop and are anxious to get the new speedster body ready so that the public can see what their new company can turn out.
